

KAMAL MANSHARAMANI JOINS MGL AS CEO, GROWTH PLATFORMS AND ALLIANCES

25-year industry veteran will help lead MGL's charge to leadership position in IP-led, domain-centric technology services and solutions marketplace

NEW DELHI, MARCH 9, 2009 -- Mascon Global Limited (MGL), a leading IP-led, domain centric technology solutions provider today announced the appointment of Kamal Mansharamani as CEO of Growth Platforms and Alliances. Mansharamani will report to MGL Chairman and Global CEO, Sandy K. Chandra.

"Kamal is the ideal addition to our growing global leadership team. His more than 25 years of experience running and transforming technology services and solutions businesses into global leaders will be invaluable as MGL continues its charge to become the undisputed leading provider of IP-led, domain-centric technology solutions to the global marketplace," commented Chandra.

Mansharamani said, "MGL is already one of our industry's most respected companies, with a long history of delivering best-in-class technology services and solutions to the world's top companies. I look forward to helping propel MGL to its next level of growth and taking our place as the leading IP-led, domain-centric technology solutions company."

Mansharamani will take responsibility for MGL's burgeoning Technology Solutions Group, including ERP and identity management solutions. He will also head the global alliances program and be charged with significantly increasing revenues generated from top-tier alliances. Further, he will run the newly formed central global sales and marketing organizations, including an increased focus on the European market.

Mansharamani has 25 years of experience in many sectors of the technology industry. Immediately prior to joining MGL, he founded and ran AlmaMate, an entrepreneurial venture working in IT employability and technology consulting for ERP and CRM solutions.

Most notably, he was CEO of Birlasoft and helped lead that firm from fewer than 200 employees to more than 4,000 globally. In addition, he was instrumental in growing Birlasoft's revenues to well over US$150 million. In addition, he served in multiple capacities at DCM Technologies, including his final post as Chief Operating Officer. Mansharamani is closely associated with the industry governing body NASSCOM, providing leadership in their education programs and being featured as a frequent speaker.

Mansharamani holds a bachelor's degree in technology from IIT Delhi and an MBA from Faculty of Management Studies at Delhi University.
